THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

"On the 22nd day of February, 1932, America will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Wherever there are those who love ordered liberty, they may well join in the observance of that event. Although he belongs to us, yet by being a great American he became a great world figure. It is but natural that here under the shadow of the stately monument rising to his memory, in the Capital City bearing his name, the country made independent by his military genius, and the Republic established by his statesmanship, should already begin preparations to proclaim the immortal honor in which we hold the Father of our Country."

To CLOYD HECK MARVIN
PRESIDENT,

who, in the space of eight short months has convinced the University of his sincerity, not only by deeds, but
by his unbounded faith in The George Washington University, this the nineteenth volume of the Cherry Tree is respectfully dedicated.

FOREWORD

To the students of
The George Washington University, Alumni, and those who will cherish this University, as their Alma Mater,
we present a book
faithful in the representation of the life of our first leader,
George Washington
in its relation to

The Division Page Border is Colonial decoration taken from architecture of that period and at the top is the coat of arms of Washington taken from his Book plate. A background illustration of the trip to New York to his inauguration fills out the page. The carriage is authentic taken from a photograph of the original now at Mount Vernon.

This is Washington's inauguration at New York. The oath was administered by the chancellor of the state of New York in a balcony in front of the Senate Chamber. James Otis, Secretary of the Senate, held the Bible for Washington to kiss. This was the 30th of April, 1789.

DEAN HOWARD L. HODGKINS

Dean Hodgkins, the only member of the faculty who attended the University when it was situated on "College Hill," literally grew up with the University. To Dean Hodgkins goes the further distinction of being the only alumnus who ever acted as President of the University, serving in that capacity during the period between the resignation of President Collier and the election of President Lewis. As Secretary of the Alumni Association for thirty years and President thereof for two years, Dean Hodgkins was the moving spirit of the organization. Because of his unflinching service and untiring efforts, he justly merits his rank as Dean of the University.

ELMER LOUIS KAYSER

Another one of the familiar figures without which the University would never be the same, is Elmer Louis Kayser, Secretary of the University, Director of the Summer School, and Associate Professor of History.

We point with pride to Secretary Kayser as a George Washington University product. Graduating from Western High School in 1914, Mr. Kayser received his A.B. from our Alma Mater in 1917 and a year later took his Master's degree.

Since that time he has been connected with the University in one capacity or another, a friend to the entire student body, and an ardent well-wisher of the University.

DEAN GEORGE N. HENNING

Dean Henning's deep interest in, and love for the Romance Languages have won for him the position of Dean of Graduate Studies, which he has held for the last ten years. Dean Henning spent his undergraduate days at Harvard, where his admirable record in scholarship gave him membership in Phi Beta Kappa. He is the author of several French texts and splendid French Lyrics. Due to his great advances in the field of Romance Languages and his position as head of the Graduate School, Dean Henning has gained for himself enviable distinction in academic circles.

Home: Mansfield, Pennsylvania.

DEAN WILLIAM C. VAN VLECK

William Cabell Van Vleck, Dean of the Law School and Professor of Law at George Washington University is one of the leading men in his profession. After graduating from Central High School, he entered George Washington University where he received his A.B. Degree in 1908 and his LL.B. Degree in 1911. He then entered Harvard University where he received the S.J.D. Degree in 1921. Dean Van Vleck is a member of the American Bar Association and of the American Law Institute.

DEAN WILLIAM C. BORDEN

William Cline Borden, Dean of the Medical School, Professor of Surgery, and Surgeon-in-Chief of the George Washington University Hospital, has been a prominent figure in medical circles for many years.

After graduating from the G. W. U. Medical School in 1883, he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the U. S. Army Medical Corps, where he rose to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and Surgeon. Dean Borden has been connected with the University since 1909.

He is one of the founders of the American College of Surgeons, and is the author of several important contributions to the science of surgery, among them being "Military Surgery" and "Roentgen Ray".

DEAN HENRY GRATTAN DOYLE

Henry Grattan Doyle, our newly appointed Dean of Men, began his career at Harvard University, where he received his A.B. cum laude in Romance Languages in 1911. After taking his Master's degree in 1912, he remained at that institution as an instructor until he came to George Washington University in 1916.

In addition to his interest and activities in his professional field, Dean Doyle is connected with the publications of the University as faculty advisor. He was recently elected Vice-President of Pi Delta Epsilon, National Honorary Journalism Fraternity, and has taken the lead in the nation wide contests in College Journalism held by that fraternity.

DEAN WILLIAM A. WILBUR

Dean Wilbur came to George Washington University many years ago as principal of the old preparatory school. Through his interest and advances in literary work he attained the position of Dean of Columbian College which he has held for the past twenty-five years. He is the author of English Rhetoric and has gained wide recognition as an authority on this subject. Dean Wilbur attended Brown University during his undergraduate days, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Both as dean of Columbian College and as Professor of English Literature, Dean Wilbur is largely responsible for the progress of George Washington University.

"Washington and the Corporal"

This is a story from the years of the Revolution. A corporal and his men were building a cabin, the former standing idle giving orders while the latter men struggled with the heavy logs. The General, coming upon the scene, asked the corporal why he didn't help them. "I am a corporal, an officer, sir," was the answer, "and who are you?" he asked. Before answering the general stepped over, assisted the men in placing a log, then answered calmly, "I am also an officer." Throwing back his coat to disclose his uniform he added, "General Washington."

A SENIOR'S REMINISCENCE OF A HOSPITAL DAY

6:00 A.M.—Merciful heaven's! Every time Mrs. Smith rings that bell it gets louder. I wonder if I can pull that window down without getting out of bed. Just 6:05 o'clock. Guess I can sleep for another ten minutes.

My goodness, I wonder when they're going to get Thirteenth Street fixed. I have to get a shoe shine daily from all this mud. Well, it's only 6:40 and I am only ten minutes late. Prunes, oatmeal, toast and bacon—SURE, this is Monday.

9:00 A.M. Ward M & F—Telephone ringing, ringing—that phone is always ringing M & F. "Miss Bradford? She is just about the same. She rested fairly well last night. Yes, I'll tell her you called. You are very welcome." More things to be done! "Miss Black (a new probationer) please put that backrest up higher. Cardiac cases like this old lady have a terrible time breathing. Go tell Clara (the maid in the kitchen) that the new patient in the Female Medical Ward is to have no breakfast until after the interne takes her blood. Nurses, this is "blood sugar morning". Don't give the diabetics any insulin until after their blood is taken." I wonder where all the "Probs" are! There's one. "Miss Smith, go in and feed Mr. Brunner right away, please, before his breakfast gets cold." Telephone again! "M & F, Miss Atkins speaking. I sent the diet slip down quite a while ago. I can't understand why you didn't get it. Oh, I see. I'll send another down." Now for making rounds in the wards. "No, you can't get up in the wheelchair before you have your bath."

Here comes the interne to do the redressings, ALREADY! My, how sleepy he looks. I guess he wants to get through early so he can be sure to get a seat for the baseball game. Oh, I thought surely I had enough "flats" and sterile towels. "I'm sorry, Dr. Reisinger, but you'll just have to wait a minute until I get some from the 'O. R.'"

My, I'm glad it's 11:30. I'm starved! There comes Dr. Mallory. I'm going to sneak down. Someone else can make rounds with him. I wonder what kind of soup we'll have today. Fooled again—it's baked beans! "Telephone call for me? Why don't they let me eat my lunch in peace. "Yes, she has a P.R.N. order for caffeine. Give her some immediately. I'll get an interne and come up right away. Vannette, I'll be down later. Save some lunch for me, please." Back up to the fourth floor I rush. "Get some hot water bottles filled at once. Brint two extra blankets. There—she'll last through the day, I think."

2:00 P.M.—Telephone ringing again! "Yes, this is she speaking. Emergency! Dr. Borden—I'll be right down". Just my luck. The "O. R." girls would all be over at Gallinger for class and they would pick on me to scrub. Oh well, tomorrow is another day.

"I'm sorry that glove is patched, Dr. Borden. Mrs. Schwinn, please give me another pair of gloves. Sh!, Dr. Nye, there are no more  $7\frac{1}{2}$  gloves. You can wear a 7 just this once. Yes, that's a cutting needle, Dr. McNitt. Here is the drainage tube, Dr. Borden. You don't want a cigarette drain? Is this one all right? Mrs. Schwinn, I can count only fifteen sponges. I've counted them th... Yes, here is the suture. I've counted them three... Straight or curved? I counted them three times and the count was fifteen each time. More are being boiled now, Dr. Borden.

Here's the other sponge under the Mayo table, Mrs. Schwinn. Yes, Dr. Borden, the sponge count is O. K." My soul, when is this going to end? I've forgotten his routine skin closure. I wish Mrs. Schwinn would look this way.—Well, the patient is back and her pulse feels as if she could stand a dozen more operations. The worst part is cleaning up. Here comes Dr. McNitt. Something's wrong! "I'm sorry, Dr. McNitt, but if you hadn't been in the "O. R." for six months, could you remember in the rush of things that Dr. Borden always uses short needle holders?" Telephone again.

"Dr. White,—emergency appendectomy? Immediately? What's the name and room number?" Nell's bells! My luck again. And I've torn up the "O. R.", too. This was marked "Dr. White and the gown has long sleeves. No time to get another one. "I'm sorry, Dr. White. It was marked your gown. How about your socks? Right here, with your gloves." My knees are surely shaking. Dr. White uses chromic on a round needle for fascia while the others use a cutting needle. My Grandmother's pickles! I have dropped all the Kellies. I don't blame Mrs. Schwinn for getting provoked. "Yes, Dr. Riddick, here is the sheet." Let's see, he uses eight towel clips—that would be three on... Here are the straight artery clamps, Dr. Wilson. Thank goodness, they are closing up and that's over.

That telephone rings, rings, rings. "Operating Room, Mrs. Schwinn speaking. Yes, she'll be down right away, Mrs. Stevens." Bless Pat! What do they want with me now? Down to the dispensary, of course—what's this? "Oh, Miss Nurse, save me, save me! I have the pain—so much right here—oh, Miss Nurse.... "Yes, we'll fix the pain." To the telephone again. "Will you please ring the interne on Dispensary Service and tell him to come down right away, please?" Well, it was only a little indigestion.

5:00 P.M.—Ice cream night and I'm hungry. I forgot all about going back to lunch.

5:15 P.M.—"Yes, Mrs. Gibson, I'll make rounds and give in the day report." I named the third floor "Neurotics Paradise" long ago and that name still holds. "Mrs. Jones, I'm sorry. I'll have your bell fixed as soon as possible. I hope you rest well to-night. Yes, I'll tell your night nurse. Good evening. No, I shouldn't report that if I were you. It wasn't given because it hadn't been made and sent up from the Pharmacy." Down to the second floor. Any very ill patients on this floor, I wonder? Diabetic coma? I'll get an interne at once. I hate to leave this patient in this condition for the night nurse. We'll hope she'll come out of coma before seven o'clock. She certainly is a very ill patient.

7:00 P.M.—Night nurses report and I wish them a good night. I must see the coma patient before going off duty.

8:00 P.M.—All dressed and waiting for "him".

9:00 P.M.—Enjoying John Gilbert at his fascinating best!

ORGANIZATIONS

"Washington and Steuben"

During the winter at Valley Forge, Baron Steuben, a brilliant officer from the army of Frederick the Great of Germany, visited Washington's camp. He was so impressed by the noble spirit of both the men and their leader that he immediately enlisted his services in the American cause, and soon taught the hungry soldiers what drill meant, and made them into a formidable organization.

The Newman Club is an organization of Catholic students which was founded at the University in the Spring of 1925. The purpose of the Club is to serve as an authorized center of Catholic intellectual and social life at the University and to cooperate with the other organizations on the Campus towards advancing the standards and welfare of the University.

WOMEN'S ADVISORY COUNCIL

The Women's Advisory Council is composed of a group of girls who represent the various classes and activities on the G. W. campus. They meet to discuss questions which are of interest to the women students of the University. Decisions that the Council reaches are carried back to the groups the members represent, and thus each woman student is made aware of any steps taken in the University that are to her interest and welfare.

A university is known to the world at large through its alumni. George Washington University may well be proud of its eight thousand graduates, resident in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries. It is the object of the General Alumni Association to keep the alumni in touch with each other and with the University, in order that college ties may be lasting.

Upon graduation every student automatically becomes a member of the Association for one year. Thereafter membership is continued upon payment of one dollar a year in annual dues, in return for which certain privileges are received, the greatest of which is that of voting each year for alumni representatives on the Board of Trustees of the University. Six of the twenty-seven Trustees are Alumni, nominated by members of the Association.

Graduates of the Law School and the School of Medicine hold membership in the Columbian-George Washington Law School Association and the George Washington Medical Society, and such membership entitles them to full privileges in the General Alumni Association.

Washington Alumni meet each month at luncheon, and from time to time throughout the year at social functions of the Association. In many of the large cities groups of alumni have formed clubs, and newcomers from George Washington are made welcome.

The official publication of the General Alumni Association is the Alumni Hatchet, issued quarterly, which prints news of interest concerning the alumni and the University. Each alumnus is asked to consider himself a member of the editorial staff of the Alumni Hatchet, and to contribute material for publication.

It is the hope of the Association that members of the class of 1928 will maintain a close and lasting connection with the University through membership in her Association.

Alumni of the George Washington University Law School are organized in the Columbian-George Washington Law School Association. Members of this Association hold full privileges in the General Alumni Association.

The Association has as its object the promotion of friendship and cooperation among those members of the Legal profession who have received their training at George Washington, and the maintenance of interest on the part of alumni in the Law School and in the University.

Every graduate of the Law School becomes a member of the Columbian-George Washington Law School Association for one year upon graduation. A cordial welcome is extended to the members of the Class of 1928, who it is hoped will maintain a lasting connection with the Association.

The George Washington University Medical Society was organized in 1905 and has held regular meetings at the School of Medicine on the third Saturday of each month from October to May each year since its organization.

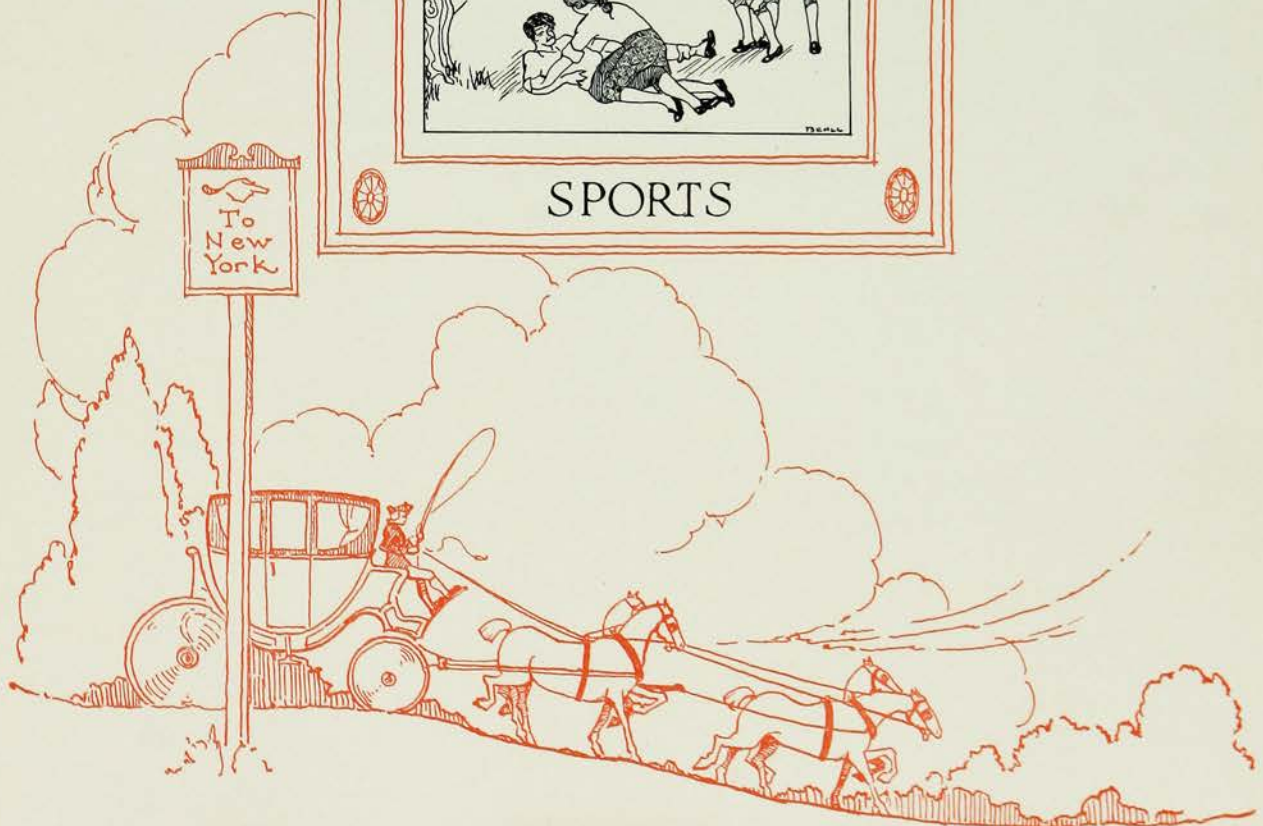

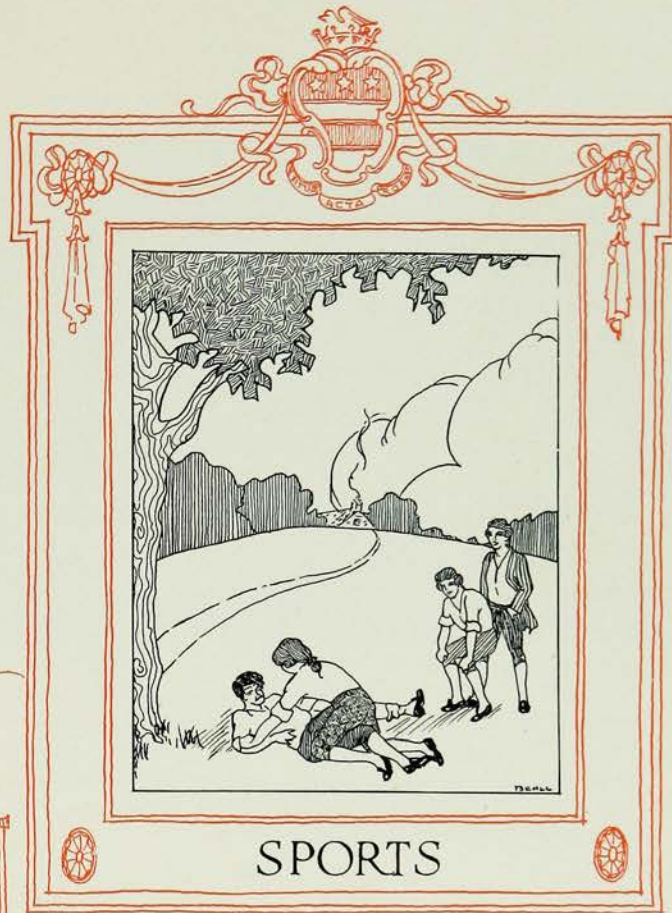

Graduates of the School of Medicine residing in the District of Columbia, who are engaged in medical work, and members of the Medical Faculty are eligible for active membership. The number so enrolled at the present time is 275. The Society has an additional enrollment of non-resident members and an honorary list of distinguished physicians, other than graduates of the School of Medicine, who have contributed to the work of the Society.

The Society was organized to serve not only as a graduate school of medicine but as an alumni reunion in the form of a social session following each scientific program, and recently the reunion feature has been extended by the holding of an annual banquet.

The work of this Society as embodied in articles published in Bulletins of the University and in leading medical journals is voluminous, but equally valuable at the time are the unpublished informal discussions which follow the presentation of all papers.

Senior medical students are invited to attend all meetings of the Society and it is noticeable that those who are the most industrious and successful in their school work are regularly present, thus acquiring early in their medical career the spirit of research and helpful discussion which characterize meetings of the medical profession generally.

ATHLETICS

"Washington and the Champion Wrestler"

This is a story from his boyhood days. As a boy he loved athletics of all kinds and one day while studying on the lawn of his home, he watched a group of boys wrestling. One tall fellow had thrown all the others, and looking about for new conquests sighted the young Washington, whom he invited to try a fall or two. Soon the Champion had lost his title to young George much to the amusement of his former victims.

VARSIITY FOOTBALL SEASON

The 1927 football schedule was one of the hardest ever attempted by a George Washington eleven. The Colonials played nine games, five of which were battled on foreign fields. All of this year's opponents were strong aggregations. Coach Crum with 28 candidates started practice on September 7, at the Georgetown field. Many of last year's men returned, among whom were Henry Sapp, Lopeman, Clapper, and Stehman behind the line, and the linesmen were Captain Allshouse, Walker, Athey, Hartzog, Carey and Perry.

The team of eligible players soon dwindled down to so few men that Coach Crum had no substitutes to speak of, and the few regulars who played the entire season won the popular title of "Iron Men". The team turned in an excellent record for the year. The George Washington gridmen worked together with machine-like precision. The Colonials scored 166 points to 65 for their opponents.

The Hatchet line for this season was one which might almost be called a stone-wall. The secondary defense was made up of men who were adept in the art of running through holes in the line. The Crummen team of 1927 has been acclaimed the best team that the University ever had. The Hatchetites lost only two games out of nine, those two being to Pen nState and Catholic University.

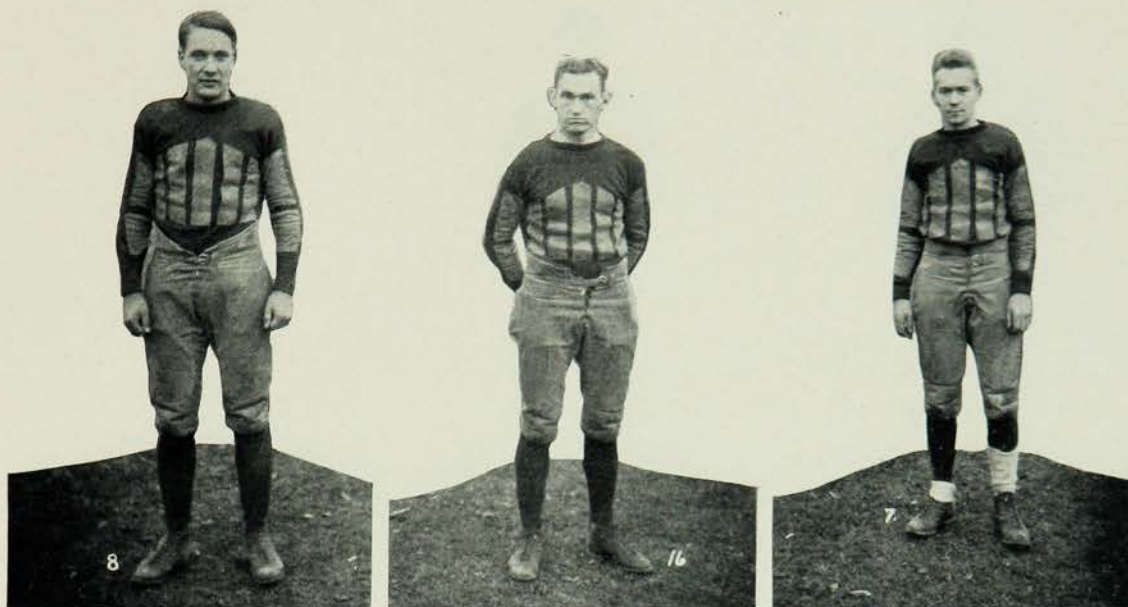

On October 1, the George Washington eleven travelled to Gotham to play the first game with City College of New York, which they trimmed by a 19 to 6 score. The only score of City College was made on a completed pass. The Colonials showed rare form in this contest and the future looked bright. Coach Crum soon smoothed the few rough spots which the first game showed.

The second game was played October 8, on home ground, with the light American University team. It was a rainy day and the two teams could not show their best form because of a sloppy field. However, the Hatchetmen, using their reserve material, had no trouble in winning by a 27 to 0 tally. In this game "Shorty" Sanders, quarterback, showed his worth as a field general.

New Brunswick, New Jersey, was the scene of the next combat, when on October 15 the "Iron Men" battled the strong Rutgers eleven. The invaders pushed the ball over the Rutger's goal only once. The final score was 6 to 0 as Stehman's try for the extra point failed.

On October 22, George Washington's football team was put to the real test and they proved that they could really play football by spilling Fordham with a score of 13 to 0. It was a hard fought, long game, much of it played in the air, but the powerful New York team was bewildered by the agile Buff and Blue offense.

George Washington defeated Ursinus at Collegeville, Pa., on October 29, by a 7 to 0 rating. This game completed five consecutive victories for George Washington. Clapper made this score possible when he ran 95 yards for a touchdown after he took the kick-off at the beginning of the second half.

George Washington made a remarkable showing against Penn State on November 5, at State College, Pa. State downed the Crummen 13 to 0. The Colonials battled the Lion's second team on even terms throughout the entire first half. Then, early in the second half, George Washington lost a chance to score because of a fumble on State's 7 yard line. Sapp, Carey, and Stehman were the outstanding players for George Washington. This game was well attended by George Washington rooters.

The Buff and Blue eleven completely smothered St. Vincent's football team in the game played in Central High School Stadium, on November 12. The final score was 40 to 19. The Hatchetmen seemed to score at will against the visitors.

The George Washington reserve strength which was very much limited had a chance to get into the fray in the second half after the regulars had piled up a substantial lead. The Saints, however, came back strong in the last quarter, and scored their 19 points.

Playing an aerial game, George Washington downed the strong Concord State team 33 to 0. Carey made four touchdowns on completed passes. The game was played at Concord State field on November 19. The five touchdowns were scattered throughout the entire game.

The annual football classic which winds up the season in Washington was played against Catholic University on Thanksgiving day. George Washington went into the game a favorite, but lost as happens in so many instances in which a team is a picked favorite. All who saw the game realized that the Colonials were fighting against fate. "The Cardinals got the breaks."

At the beginning of the game, it did seem as though George Washington would win, but Catholic University got busy and scored two touchdowns before George Washington's first score. At the half, the score was 14 to 7. At the opening of the second half, Clapper took the kickoff on his own 5 yard mark, and ran the length of the field for a touchdown. Catholic University came right back with another score. In the final period, both teams scored. The score for the game was 27 to 21, with George Washington on the short end.

George Washington out-rushed, out-kicked, and out-passed the Catholics, but the Irish luck of the latter could not be beaten. Regardless of the outcome, one could not wish for a faster, cleaner, or more thrilling game.

Coach Crum worked long and hard in molding this year's football team into tip top form. The fact that so few men were out for this sport put the coach at a serious disadvantage from the beginning of the season. More than once came the call for more men, but few answered. The coach often found himself pressed for substitutes. Early in the season, Coach Crum received a serious blow when Captain Allshouse suffered a broken ankle during the C. C. N. Y. game. This put him out for the entire season.

Captain Allshouse, Perry, Carey, and Bogorad held down the end positions, while Hartzog, Crombie, Porter, and Bushong were next in the line at tackles. Then at guard, were Athey and Goldman. Walker was at center almost the entire season. Sanders, Clapper, Stehman, Sapp, Lopeman, Clements, and Frazier held down the four backfield positions.

Although this season has been an enviable one, Coach Crum is looking forward to next year's with much interest, for he expects to build up a team that will go through the season with out a defeat. Many of the regulars will return, and the best of the Freshman material will probably join the varsity next year. This year's freshman team, coached by "Buck" Avis, was undefeated. Coach Crum deserves the highest commendation for his work in turning out such a successful football squad.

VAR SITY BASKETBALL SEASON

George Washington was represented this year by one of the most successful basketball teams in years. Manager Herzog listed an unusually hard schedule, and the Buff and Blue did exceedingly well. The Colonials won eleven out of eighteen games for an average of .611, which is very good under any conditions. Notable victories were gained over the strong William and Mary aggregation, and American University's versatile quintet. Taking into consideration the heavy schedule, a new system of coaching and the loss of three stellar players the Colonials made a fine record.

The George Washington squad was composed of Captain Goodson, Perry, Carey, Sapp, Allshouse, and Barrows, veterans of last year's team, Lopeman and Stehman of football fame, Gray and Young, two promising youngsters from last year's freshman quintet, and Motyka and Rangeley, husky forwards who became eligible in February.

The season was officially opened by a 16-13 victory over Bridgewater. The game was poorly played and was marred by the rough tactics of both teams.

The next game, with American University, was fast and exciting all the way.

RANGLEY

The Colonials led, until nosed out in the last few minutes of play, with a score of 23-21.

With this rather unimpressive record behind them, it was a determined bunch of players who traveled south for a three-game trip. The Colonials handily defeated the Hampden-Sidney quint 28-15, after getting off to a slow start.

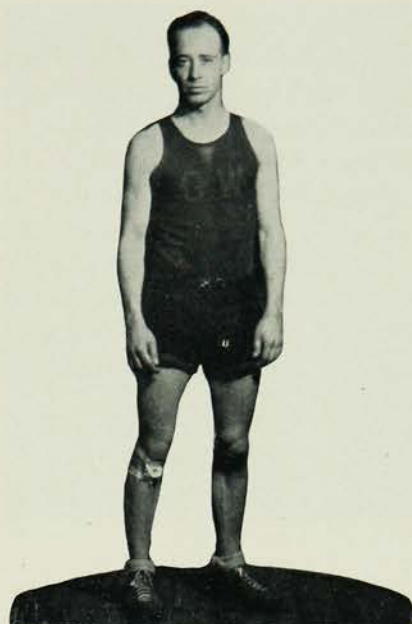

Then the Buff and Blue stepped out to win over Virginia Medical College, 31-20, in a rather uninteresting game.

One of the best contests of the entire season was played at Williamsburg against the strong William and Mary five. Only in the last six minutes of play did the Colonials come through with an attack that could not be denied and triumphed 34-33.

Fresh from their successful trip, the George Washington quint took on the Salem College of West Virginia to tune up for the C. U. game. The game was hard played, with the Colonials on top at the finish, 30-25.

George Washington suffered the worst defeat of the season at the hands of Catholic University. The Buff and Blue couldn't cope with the powerful Cardinal five, and were smothered, 40-20.

BARROWS

The next two games were with Baltimore University and Roanoke. Both games were taken by nine point margins, 37-28 and 42-33.

The Colonials then lost a heart-breaker to Lake Forest, 27-26, in the last few minutes of play.

The husky Davis-Elkins quintet were our next opponents and won 39 to 30. "Chalky" Lopeman, playing his last game, came through with six baskets.

The Buff and Blue wiped up the Hampden-Sidney Tigers again, 40-22, and bowed to the strong St. Bonaventure aggregation.

The contest with Guilford College was nip and tuck with the visitors leading most of the time. The Colonials had to spurt to come through by a seven point margin, 29-22.

The Virginia Medicos were again defeated, this time by a larger score, 39-18.

One of the most exciting games of the year was played out at American University. Allshouse played brilliantly and his two baskets in the last few minutes of play were the winning margin. The final score was 28-25.

The team went into the last game with Catholic University with a "do or die" spirit, and a much bolstered morale, due to their recent victories. In the first half, the Cardinals played a cautious game while the Colonials fought too hard and so incurred a great many fouls on themselves. This proved their undoing in the second half. The score at the end of the first half, C. U. . . , G. W. . . . C. U. got their powerful offensive going to start the second half and scored three baskets in rapid order. In a vain attempt to stop the Catholic's attack, the Colonials drew more personal fouls, and consequently were ejected from the contest. Coach Crum put in his substitutes who performed creditably, but could not stop C. U.'s scoring rampage. The final score was 52-19.

THE MEN'S RIFLE TEAM

The Men's Rifle Team brought to a close the most successful season through which they have ever passed. Although the teams turned out by Walter Stokes have won championships before, no one of his teams has ever remained undefeated until this year. During a difficult schedule of twelve matches, five of which were fired shoulder-to-shoulder the team emerged without a defeat.

After several weeks of preliminary practice, the small-bore season was opened with a match against V. P. I. The Southerners, however, were easily disposed of. The following week the strongest of the New England teams, Boston Tech, was met and felt the sting of defeat. At the time that this match was being fired, the National Rifle Association was completing its plans for the coming matches and made its first announcement of the change in the standing position which barred the use of any support for the left arm. All matches subsequently fired were fired under the new regulations.

A match was scheduled with Gettysburg College, but it was postponed.

The opening contest was fired with V. P. I. George Washington easily defeated the Virginians by a large margin. Bob Leighy's shooting featured in this match. The Colonials turned in their highest total score of the season against V. P. I. It was the first match of the season that was played and it brightened the way for future matches by starting the season off with a bang. At the end of the match, the G. W. opponents found themselves 75 points behind.

The University of Maryland had a crack rifle team, but they, too, were among the many to fall before the Stokesmen. They were defeated by 35 points, the Maryland team firing a good score in this match.

The Hatchetmen, shooting in usual form, swamped the team of the University of Western Maryland by 60 points.

The fourth match of the series found our men facing the strongest team in the league, the United States Naval Academy. The men were equal to the occasion, however, and turned in a score far above that of their opponents. The results of this match greatly strengthened the team's hope of national honors.

The next match furnished a week of respite for the hard working team members. Virginia Military Institute fell without pressing the more experienced George Washington men. Up to this match all scores had been fired telegraphically. This was the last of this type of match.

From there until the close of the season, all matches were fired shoulder-to-shoulder. The first of these was the encounter with Georgetown fired on the G. W. range. The Georgetowners were easy meat and were defeated by a hundred point margin.

The CHERRY TREE

The following week, a second match was fired against the Naval Academy, this time at Annapolis, but even on their own range the sailors were no match for the Colonial team.

The John's Hopkins aggregation which made the journey from Baltimore for the last match of the season before the Intercollegiates could make no impression, and journeyed back, badly beaten.

Now came the final and greatest test possible for any team, the match to determine the National Champions. The offer of the George Washington University Rifle Range for the South Carolina sectional match was accepted and all the teams previously enrolled in the league and seeking National honors attended. On the same date, the leagues in other sections of the United States held similar matches fired under identical conditions. Thus to the winner would go the title. Parsons, Campbell, Leighy, Riley, and Radue, the five men representing George Washington, constituted one of the most experienced teams in its history. All of them were firing for the last time and were making their last effort to bring the trophy to George Washington. Walter Stokes, coaching for the last time, was equally determined that this year of all years, George Washington must win. With these men rested the fate of the University. They merited the confidence placed in them and the close of the match found George Washington leading the Nation with a margin of sixteen points over its closest competitor.

The winning of the championship marked the climax of the season, but an additional match was fired the following week against the strong Boston Tech team.

VAR SITY BASKETBALL

This year the girls' basketball team started its season with only three letter girls from last year's squad. In spite of this handicap, a team was picked which did credit to George Washington. The squad was fortunate in having as Coach, Miss Eugenia Stuart Davis, an experienced and competent instructor. Under her direction basketball technique and teamwork have been developed, and the team has trained hard to meet four of the strongest teams of the East.

In the forward field, Naomi Crumley, of last year's squad, has shown excellent form, while Jean McGregor and Alethea Lawton have developed splendid pass-work and accurate shooting. In the guard territory Betty Zimmerman and Winnie Faunce have worked hard to rout their opposing forwards, and Evelyn Folsom, a Freshman, has been a worthy alternate. Louis Omwake at center developed an effective set of signals and passes with the side center, Jenny Turnbull. Other players who have shown marked ability are Betty Brandenburg, Julie Denning, and Mary Sproul. The first team players had to fight hard to maintain their positions, while the "subs" exhibited the speed and form necessary to keep the "regulars" on their toes. The manager, Julia Denning, arranged a difficult schedule which afforded real competition. Last, but not least, comes the team's mascot, Peter Whiskers, an enthusiastic supporter at all games.

VARSIITY RIFLE

The George Washington markswomen added another undefeated season to their ever lengthening list this year. In the past six years only two matches have been lost. This enviable record they feel is in a large measure due to the excellent coaching of Walter Stokes who has just completed his last year in this capacity at George Washington.

Many very good scores were made this year by the Buff and Blue. The score of 2972 made in the Women's Intercollegiate Team Championship was nineteen points higher than the University of Maryland, their nearest rival. G. W. won this match last year, making the first time that any team has won it twice in succession.

The individual scores were all very high with six girls placing among the upper ten of the Individual Intercollegiate Championship matches.

Helen Taylor, captain, made a national record of eight possibles which is equivalent to 60 bulleyes.

Letters were awarded to Helen Taylor, Betty Clark, Marjorie Folsom, Roberta Wright, Arline Spencer, Helen Prentiss, Verna Parsons, Helen Humphrey, and Naomi Crumley.

Helen Taylor was re-elected captain and Eugenia Cuvillier appointed manager.

VAR SITY HOC KE Y

This year the George Washington hockey team raised its standards of competition and scheduled only college lineups. The advance which this sport has made among major athletics of the University and in intercollegiate competition in the last three years is due entirely to the efforts of Mrs. Virginia Hopkins Russell. As a result the team was able to face unusually strong opposition offered by Swarthmore and William and Mary, which are considered two of the speediest teams of the East.

A team was picked from the preliminary class games and several very good players were developed. Jenny Turnbull and Mary Ewin displayed the best form throughout the season. Betty Zimmerman, Louise Dubose, and Caroline Hobbs also did outstanding work and contributed some splendid teamwork.

Hockey has achieved great popularity among the students, and many girls reported for practice. Few, however, of the new students had ever played the game before, so the squad was largely formed from green material.

Alice Adams was manager and Alice Graham was, for the second time, elected captain of the team. This year the team will lose only three girls and since many members of the squad are planning to go to Hockey Camp this Fall, prospects are bright for 1928.

TENNIS

For five consecutive seasons the girls' varsity tennis team has been undefeated in intercollegiate matches, and the varsity squad promises a clean record for 1928. Last Spring the doubles tournament was won by Frances Walker and Billy Wright, with Edith Petrie and Elizabeth Chickering runners-up. This fall Miriam Davis defeated Louise Omwake in the finals of the annual singles event.

Only one of the members of last year's championship team returned this year. In spite of this handicap, however, the outcome of the Fall tournament points to another successful year. Challenge matches were played off in the Spring and close competition resulted.

The Spring Varsity schedule includes matches with William and Mary, American University, Hood College, and probably a practice match with the University of Maryland.

SWIMMING

This year swimming has attained a place among the varsity sports of George Washington. From a squad which has been training all year at the new Y. W. C. A. pool, a team has been chosen to compete in a meet with Sullins College on April 21.

Splendid form and speed have been exhibited by Julia Denning, Claudia Kyle, Judith Steele, Louise Mackall, and Helen Taylor.

A senior life-saving class was also organized and instruction in land and water-drill was held by Mrs. Virginia Hopkins Russell.

FENCING

At last George Washington has a varsity fencing team! Matches were scheduled with Fairmont and Holten Arms, and a trip was made to Annapolis on March third to get pointers from the Yale-Naval Academy bouts.

The team was made up of three members and one alternate. Floddie Merriam, backed by four years experience, was the outstanding member of the group, while Betty Zimmerman ran her a close second.

In the past the Italian method has been in use at the University. This year, however, the French method was introduced by Major Blount, an experienced fencer and a member of the Annapolis Board of Judges.

INTER-CLASS BASKETBALL

Every year intra-mural sports gain in popularity. In basketball the four classes were represented by six teams, three of which were chosen from the Freshman squad. The schedule was run off by Miss Eugenia Davis, coach and referee. The championship was won by the Sophomores, captained by Naomi Crumley and managed by Jenny Turnbull. The Freshmen who were runners-up, gave the winners a hard battle for the victory. From the class teams material was chosen for the varsity squad.

Standing—BETTY ZIMMERMAN, LOUISE OMWAKE, ALICE GRAHAM, LOUISE DUBOSE.
Seated—PENELOPE GRAHAM, ALICE ADAMS, MYRTLE CROUCH, MAXINE ALVERSON, MARY EWEN.

CLASS HOCKEY

The inter-class hockey series was won by the Junior-Senior team. With Mary Ewin as manager and Louise Dubose as captain, the team defeated the Freshman and Sophomore lineups. The ellipse afforded an unusually good field for the inter-class matches. A large number of girls reported for class practice and many were duly rewarded for their work by making their respective teams.

LESS TRUTH THAN POETRY

G. W. GIRLS WIN

(They couldn't help it)

The game opened with the opponent's five foot center accepting the tip-off from Omwake, who received a black eye in return. Play began to get pretty hot and both teams exhibited 57 varieties of fumbling. In the second quarter the ball went toward the visitor's basket, but just at that moment Turnbull looked at it and it obediently rolled to our forwards. Crumley, however, starred as an ornament and succeeded in missing every basket attempted—with one exception.

This was the one example of headwork during the first half. Faunce, aiming for Lawton, hurled the ball which bounced on Crumley's head (evidence of hard training) and landed in the basket for the only tally scored by this lineup.

At the half, righteously disgusted, Coach Davis put out the whole darn bunch and substituted some real stars. Kyle as side center ably supported the rangy center, Alverson. Hobbs and Irey as forwards were great assets—to the opponents; while Crouch and Morris stood in the guard territory.

Immediately Alverson leaped to fame and covered the whole center floor—Kyle was tying her shoe. Hobbs shot baskets from behind the backboard while Irey fed her peanuts. Crouch overpowered her strong forward but Morris did her one better in strangling the other goal thrower.

From the sidelines Mrs. Russell, Zimmerman, and Denning (Brandenburg, alternate) yelled "At 'e ol' fight in the-e-e-er" and spurred the team on to victory. The game ended with the score 101-3 in favor of the Buff and Blue, but with such a combination the outcome was inevitable. Peter Whiskers claimed it a howling success!

HASH OR WHAT HAVE YOU

Will you ever forget the glorious return from the hockey field? Six husky, dirty athletes—one small Victoria—G Street—loafers—profs staring from windows—trolley bell clanging—back home at the gym—a good squeeze was had by all.

Remember the time when Betty Zimmerman and Jenny Turnbull were talking so hard that they forgot to get off the train at West Philly with the rest of the hockey team?

Ask India Bell Corea what kind of candy pulled that A in Hygiene.

Ask Betty Clark what she thinks of the one year rule for rifle.

Dummy and Betty Zimmerman are like "Me and my shadow" but it's hard to decide which is "me" and which "my shadow".

We wonder what the football team will do when Peg Loeffler leaves.

Ask Myrtle Crouch if she prefers spaghetti to chewing gum and football to hockey.

ADVERTISING AGENTS AMONG G. W. STUDENTS

Maxine Alverson advertises Victor records "Voices that never die".
Like Royal Gelatine, Peg Loeffler has "the juice of 35 Razzberries".
Planter's Peanuts are given free publicity by Alethea Lawton and Katherine Palmer—"popular nut."

Save your dog from distemper, Miss Davis, use Sergeant's Dog Medicine—then maybe he won't upset the ink bottle on the Chief's desk.

Myrtle Crouch is the advertising agent at G. W. for Wrigley's chewing gum—good for teeth, throat, stomach, and digestion, after every meal and during every game."

"I'd walk a mile for a camel", said Mary Sproul as her Ford broke down.

After four years of Quigley's dinners even Jean McGregor will need Palmolive soap to "keep that schoolgirl complexion".

Judith Steele—she floats—is she 99 44-100% pure?

Julia Denning resembles Dutch Cleanser, she "chases dirt" around the campus.

Testimony of Betty Brandenburg—"Two months ago I was weak and anemic, low physically, mentally and morally. Upon the recommendation of Dean Rose I started to take Fleischman's Yeast daily. Almost immediately my spirits rose, my health returned, and now I am able to enjoy life again."

No longer will Alice Adams have to spend an hour taking a shower after hockey. We have found "a new way to loosen dirt without a stroke of work"—Chipso.

We wonder if Billy Wright uses Knox Sparkling Gelatine. It advertises "four ways to a man's heart".

After winning first place in national rifle honors we want to know when Helen Taylor will capitalize her fame on the stage or with Mr. Pyle. "Eventually, why not now", Helen.

Mary Ewen resembled Hawaiian Pineapple after the Swarthmore game—"sliced and crushed".

Winnie Faunce gets her eight hours sleep for training on a Capitol Brand Mattress—"everything goes blank when you touch it".

Mary K. Lutz and Louise DuBose are like California Limas when they get together—"beans with a nut-like flavor."

A bus line has been established between the gym and the hockey field. Mrs. Russell offers "a dollar ride for 25 cents"—In Iris.

The Sport Editor wishes to announce that the excellence of this section is due to the fact that her assistants, Mary and Dummy are just acquiring their wisdom teeth.

ACTIVITIES

After the arduous labors of the Revolutionary War and the exacting duties of first President of the United States, Washington retired to Mt. Vernon. But he did not lose contact with the country, for his greatest delight was to gather his friends about him. Garden parties, stately balls, hunts, and quiet dinners were his especial pleasures. The hospitable doors of Mt. Vernon were always open.

THE TROUBADOURS

The Troubadours wrought another niche in the George Washington University Hall of Fame when the Musical Comedy, "Sharps and Frats" ran for the week of January 9 to 14, 1928, in the Wardman Park Theatre.

The first scene of Sharps and Frats was laid in a fraternity house garden. Men, co-eds, professors, and professors' wives passed in and out of the garden. Rosella Wadsworth, the most popular girl in school led Bob Stanwell an unhappy existence as he tried to follow as she came and went, each time with a different man at her elbow. Reginald Hanzspring, a subdued and ignorant "goat", always in trouble, finally "learned about women" from Dora Quackenbusch and a book on "How To Make Love". Hattie Smith, the college widow, was in the thick of the fun and had one remedy for all troubles, "Follow Hattie and you'll wear diamonds".

Dora Quackenbusch, the well-meaning, highly moral and bespectacled Professor's daughter was a successful comedian from her manner of playing the uke to her loud exhortation that Reginald couldn't "neck her" even if the book did say so. Professor and Mrs. Quackenbusch fought in and out of the garden, trying to decide for the satisfaction of both why Professor Quackenbusch was not a "College President". The climax came when Mrs. Quackenbusch found her husband in the arms of Hattie who worked hard for her "A's". Ben Rosesprig and Alfonse DeMorian were less serious aspirants to the hand of the charming Rosella.

Three songs, "I'll Be the Girl", "Over A Garden Gate", and "See What Love Did", clever songs, in the best seller class, were made especially delightful by the singing of the leads and dancing of the tall, medium, and small choruses.

The only Floating University in existence brought the collegiate crowd aboard the "S.S. Silver Phizz", in the second act. Between sea-sickness, a real bar, and broken hearts, the University rolled forward. Bob Stanwell mourned on all occasions for his lost love, Rosella, who contrived to flirt with every other man on board. Reginald learned even more about women and finally wanted nothing better than to come back to his first love, Dumb Dora. Dumb Dora became sophisticated and began whiffing liquor with the sniff of a connoisseur. Ben Rosesprig, danced about with a wise-crack and a cheerful grin for everyone and even tried, without avail, to cheer up the doleful Bob.

The male chorus sang a Song of the Vikings as they cruised ahead and the feminine sailors danced a hornpipe as no "gobs" ever did. Rosella and a ballet chorus made a graceful and colorful scene in a waltz to the tune of "In My Heart". Dora, Reginald, and Ben endeavored to patch up relations between Rosella and Bob, and Dora and Ben's rendition of "So Long to the Blues" made failure seem impossible.

The tall chorus again enlivened the scene with a "peppy" dance accompanying "So Long to the Blues", and Professor Quackenbusch broadcasted the news that, at last, he was to be the much hoped for President. Hattie's college career was certainly assured and Mrs. Quackenbusch became a changed character.

The final curtain dropped and was raised again for the singing of the George Washington University song, "Hail, Alma Mater".

Book and lyrics were written by Larry Parker; the music was composed by Elmer Brown; settings were devised by Pern Henninger, all students of George Washington University. General supervision of the production was under the direction of Denis Connell. The dances were composed at the Thayer Studio and staged under the supervision of Mary Virginia Leckie, assisted by Julia Lee Denning, Betty Waller, and Peggy Eckels. The costumes were created by Peggy Hoover.

THE DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

The George Washington University Dramatic Association closed the University's dramatic season when they scored a triumph by producing and presenting, during the week of April 23, at Wardman Park Theatre, a Danish play, "Two times Two equals Five" by Gustav Weid, for the first time in Washington and for the second time in America.

The group which responded to the first call for candidates early in the spring was a large and talented body, but it was a group entirely different from that which appeared in former years, nor did they appear before the same staff of managers as did those before them. The old system of dramatic presentation at George Washington had given way to the process of natural and progressive evolution. At the opening of the 1927-1928 dramatic season the three drama clubs of the old regime had combined forces and concentrated funds and efforts for the great effort which culminated in "Two times Two equals Five".

The story of the play is not easy to tell, for it is not so much a story as a demonstration that behind the simple two times two of life there is an added unit to be reckoned with—and in man's life that extra unit is often a woman's will, inspired sometimes by love or ambition for him—sometimes by thought of self alone.

In Paul Abel, Weid, presents a hero of principles. Abel saw all of those about him cast about with changing principles and laughed—in fact Abel laughed at everything in life, but most of all did he laugh at the suggestion that he too might suffer a change of views. The inevitable did happen and when it did Abel fell with a crash—yes, he was injured, but only in spirit, and with this injury he found happiness.

This production, called a comedy, had a quantity of amusement, but it was not a little puzzling. It was subtle, satiric, part of it was sheer burlesque—but one was not sure that he had gotten the meaning of all of it. The characters were mostly queer—though they were not types they seemed strangely familiar. The play was puzzling in spots but it was wholly delicious. It had an air of sophistication that charmed some, and the broad humor delighted others. It was different.

Edward Moulton, business manager; Maxine De Silvia, assistant business manager; George Spangler, advertising manager; Kenneth Yearn, publicity manager; Max Tendler, program manager; Elizabeth Wiltbank, costume manager; Steve Blackman, electrician, and Pern Henninger, stage manager, comprised the production staff of the Association.

VODVIL

The function of an inaugural affair is usually to afford people a significant pleasure. As it ushers in a season of pleasure, for instance, its powers are often those of the Delphian oracle, coyly prophesying whether delight upon delight shall be piled as the days unfold or whether they shall hold only mocking failure.

The Vodvil exhibition at George Washington University, held December 8, 1927, was such an inceptive affair. This performance opened the university dramatic season in a manner that promised collegiate shows of rare quality for the coming months. That promise was realized in "Sharps and Frats" which was later presented by the Troubadours, and in "Two times Two equals Five" which was the offering of the Dramatic Association.

The acts of the Vodvil were offered by fraternities, sororities, and societies which believed that, dramatically speaking, they belonged. It was distinctly a double-barreled attempt to bludgeon to defeat their opponents with the most formidable jokes, dances, and musical numbers in existence. The show made no pretensions to artistry, and relieved of this restraining, if ennobling, influence, the members of the various casts entered the lists in the typical supposedly Joe College frame of mind. It was this active interest coupled with a refreshing originality that promised an entertaining season for university theatre-goers.

A sudden, comparatively elaborate presentation called "The Ballet Master's Idea of a One-Act Play" was the act which brought the Alpha Delta Theta a silver loving cup. It may have been that the judges were enthralled by the absorbing plot, old time melodrama, or that the characters impressed them as being especially worthy; it is probable, however, that it was a combination of the two, for the congratulatory speech of Professor Kayser, chairman of the judging committee, carried with it the conviction of an impassioned and sincere man.

Pleasingly unique was the Sigma Phi Epsilon presentation, "Twenty Minutes Before Tonight," which showed to the benevolent audience just how harassed the characters had appeared several minutes before the time came for their stage appearance. As most of the acts did, this skit contained much dancing and wise-cracking.

The "Bowery Belles" was the first act of the evening, and it was the offering of Zeta Tau Alpha. "A Pullman Honeymoon" was presented by Alpha Delta Pi, this being followed by Alpha Delta Theta's prize act. "Mammy's Backyard" was next, preceding Kappa Delta's "Devolution, Heavolution, Evolution". "I'd Die for Dear Old Folloes" gave way to "Cinderella," Gamma Beta Pi's attempt for the prize. Immediately after the curtain had dropped on "Inimitable Harmony," Sigma Kappa held a fashion show on the stage. "Twenty Minutes Before Tonight" and "It Happened and How", by Theta Delta Chi ended the performances for the evening.

The Vodvil was managed by Edward Moulton. He was assisted by Katherine Bannerman, Robert S. Williams, Maxine De Silvia, Pern Henninger, and Harold S. Blackman.

MEN'S DEBATE

With two international debates and nine others with American universities as opponents, the George Washington Varsity Debaters have completed their schedule of debates for 1927-1928.

Featuring the season were meetings with the visiting English team and with the University of the Philippines, which opened and closed the schedule. Both were interesting events, although the Colonials lost them.

While the season's record shows four encounters won, four lost, and one no-decision meeting, the decisive victory over the strong Ohio Wesleyan University team makes the season a successful one.

Victories, in addition to that scored over Ohio Wesleyan, were over Davidson College, Rutgers, and Catholic University. The teams which defeated the Colonials were those of New York University (twice), University of Maryland, and Colgate.

SOCIETY

The school year 1927-28 began with the usual pell-mell sorority and fraternity rushing; luncheons, teas, bridge and theater parties, all included in the schedule.

The annual "Little Sister" blowout of the Y. W. C. A. held in the gym tended to prejudice the frosh in favor of G. W. U. by stuffing them with potato salad, pickles, cider, doughnuts, and lollypops.

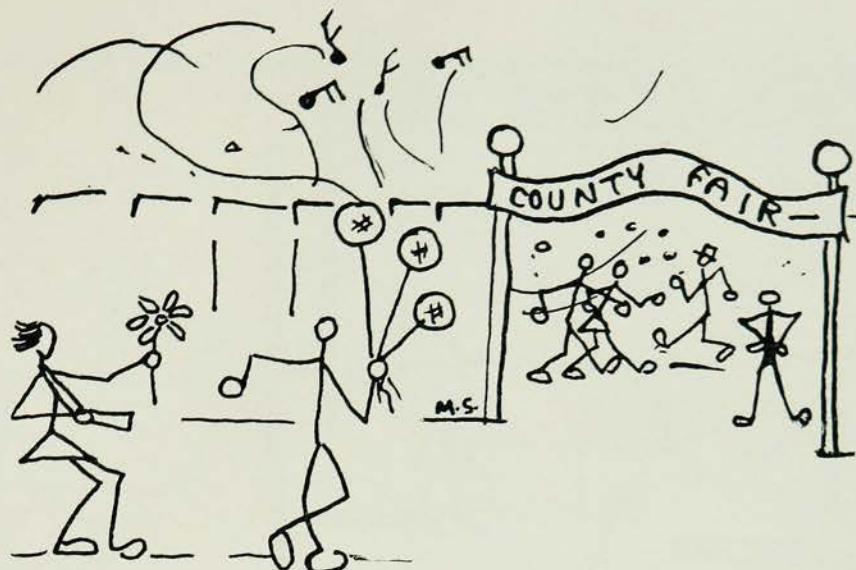

Before the short rushing season was completed, a change in the old order had been accomplished for today the rushees not only run after the sorority, but tell them they prefer teas to other types of diversion.

November 1st "promising" occurred, and by the second week in February the overworked freshman who had made two-thirds C's were formally pledged. At last!—the culmination of a desire—or of an illusion!!

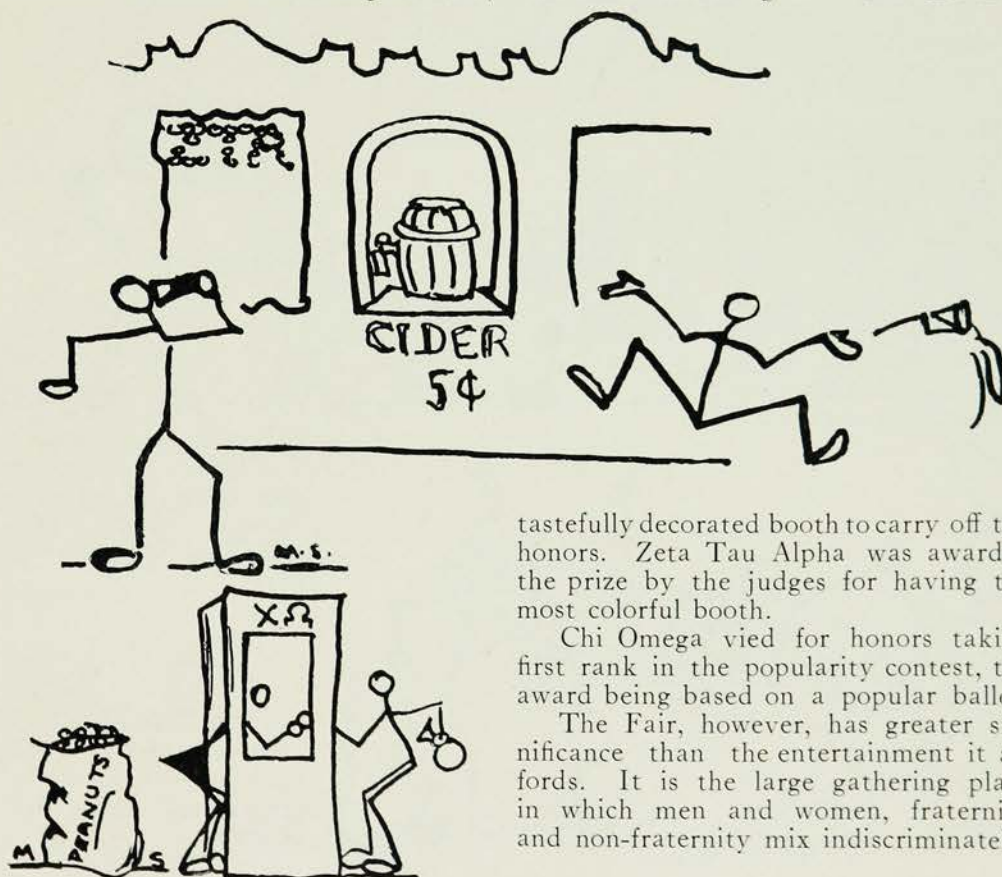

During intermissions, from one social event to another, the Pep Club, which embarked on its second successful year, got busy. The Saturday noon dances, also the meetings in Corcoran, helped to maintain the old "pep" in the quiet hour.

The CHERRY TREE

November 14th the Gym witnessed the Annual "County Fair". Many sororities and clubs were represented, with much scheming to obtain the most tastefully decorated booth to carry off top honors. Zeta Tau Alpha was awarded the prize by the judges for having the most colorful booth.

Chi Omega vied for honors taking first rank in the popularity contest, the award being based on a popular ballot.

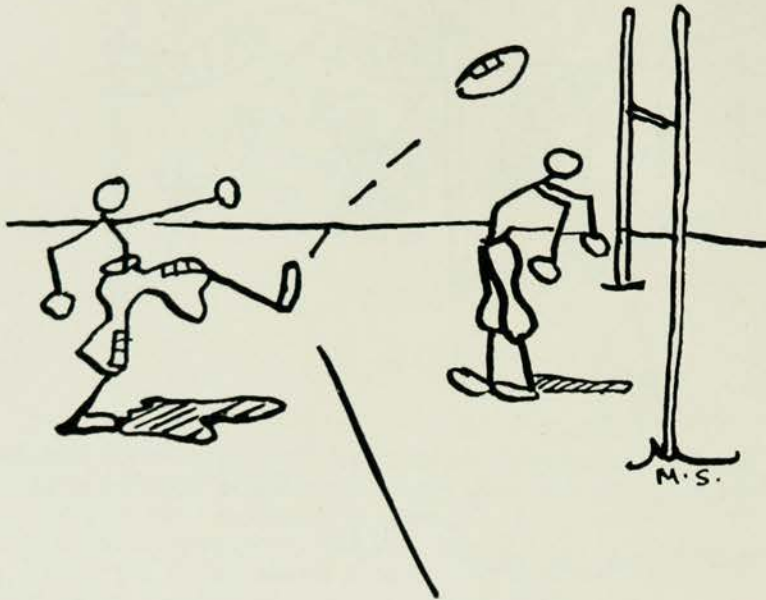

The Fair, however, has greater significance than the entertainment it affords. It is the large gathering place in which men and women, fraternity and non-fraternity mix indiscriminately.

The CHERRY TREE

Thanksgiving rolled around with its attendant big expectations of the old G. W. "iron men" team. But better luck next year, boys!
C. U. won't always get the lucky breaks!

Following the saddening, maddening game, the intended Victory Dance was held in Corcoran Hall. Here everyone successfully drowned their sorrows, and the dance, despite the score, was a success.

December 8th the Vodvil made its fifth annual bow on the campus. It consisted of ten acts by the sororities and fraternities which were especially good. That a cup was offered for the best act, to remain in permanent possession, accounts for this.

The judges awarded the cup to Alpha Delta Theta's "Ballet Master's Idea of a One Act Play".

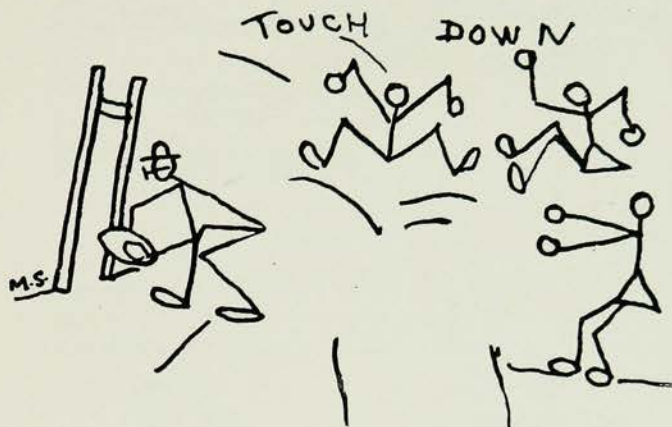

Zeta Tau Alpha's "Bowery Belles" with their "Apache dance 'n' everything" came next in order.

The CHERRY TREE

Sigma Kappa's fashion show was one of the unique features of the show.

Chi Omega's "Follies" act aroused the traditional football spirit.

Choice morsels of harmony were afforded the audience by Kappa Sigma's melody makers. Gamma Beta Pi's black face version of "Cinderella" secured hearty support.

"Twenty Minutes Before Midnight" the S. P. E's attempted to show everyone how to do clogging, tumbling, singing—all of which was thoroughly enjoyed. "It Happened and How" brought the Theta Deltas many congratulations.

The CHERRY TREE

A "Pullman Honeymoon" went over great with those in the first few rows who could see the Alpha Delta Pi's.

"Mammy's Back Yard" contributed to the evening's entertainment, the praise for which goes to Phi Mu.

Kappa Delta's "Devolution, Heavolution, and Evolution", secured a ready laugh.

The CHERRY TREE

At the annual Football Hop given in the Gym, President Marvin and Coach Crum addressed those present, praising the achievements of the team and expressing the hope of future successes. As is customary, the football captaincy for the coming year was announced; the honor having gone to Ivan "Dutch" Stehman. The Hop, and the Banquet tendered the players several days previous, wound up the football season and interest was being diverted by basketball.

The Christmas holidays finally rolled around with their excitement and buzz and lull of expectancy. House dances, teas, bridge parties, luncheons and shows claimed the attention of the G. Wites. Disappointment over the termination of the holidays was somewhat abated by returning to a college which was richer by some million dollars more than before Christmas. Gullible freshmen were seen looking for the ground works of the new school of government. Speculation ran high when the pavement in front of Lisner Hall was being torn up—hope springs eternal!!

from the faculty, student body, and dramatic critics of the city.

The Troubadours' latest effort, pioneer in dramatic production this year, ran through the week of January 9th at Wardman Park Theater. It received many favorable criticisms

The CHERRY TREE

Due to the inclemency of the weather, the Pan Hellenic tea dance, a spirited affair, was not a financial success. The largest snow fall in years burying most of G. W.'s "co's and ed's" under many feet of snow, considerably depleted the crowd. To those of us who were unable to dig ourselves out of the drifts, it became apparent from reports of those present that we had missed a good dance.

The night of February 21st witnesses a retrogration to historical times in a ball given for the benefit of the George Washington University Hospital. The season's ball, known as "A Garden Party on The Potomac", was in honor of our first patrons, General and Mrs. Washington. Included in this colorful historical pageant with its contrasts between the past and present were impersonations of the pioneers of our democracy, General LaFayette and Benjamin Franklin.

Mrs. Coolidge as chief patroness helped to link up the modern with the historic; Mrs. Washington as the first "First Lady of the Land", and Mrs. Coolidge as the present "First Lady". The tone of the benefit ball was heightened by the presence of prominent diplomats, judiciaries, and a touch of the exotic in the presence of ambassadors from our Oriental neighbors.

Following George Washington's Birthday celebration came the largest social events of the University social calendar; these were the Junior, Interfraternity, and Pan Hellenic Rooms. With its abundant publicity, plans and tasteful favors, the Junior Prom, held March 2nd at the Wardman Park Hotel, was in the opinion of those present a pretty nobby affair. March 30th brought with it the much talked of Interfraternity Prom. Breaking away from precedent, an innovation in the form of a "13th hour" stag line was witnessed. This together with the tokens for the fair sex, made of the evening a complete success.

MEDICAL MAIN DIVISION

In the darkest hour of the Revolution, Washington never lost heart. He was kind to those dependent upon him in any way. During the winter at Valley Forge he daily visited the sick soldiers and helped them in every way he could.

WASHINGTON AT PLAY

Washington at play—

“A little nonsense now and then,
Is relished by the wisest men.”

At times even great men indulge, for relaxation, in some so-called trivial enterprise. The Father of his Country, serious and thoughtful as he was, was no exception. One of his ideas was to carve his initials higher than those of anyone else, on the Natural Bridge of Virginia. He did this and those initials—G. W.—are there to this day—higher than any other initials on the bridge.

FOREWORD

To all who upon the following pages are heartlessly lampooned in a friendly way, to those who can see the humor in a burlesque of life upon our concrete campus, to the many who shall read and grin, we present this parody of the George Washington University Cherry Tree of 1928.

DEDICATION

To that ancient, revered, and long-suffering body which has as its sole aim in life the retention of undergraduate morals in the University; which stops all worth-while proms at one o'clock—and some dances; which thereby allows more time for early morning eating, driving, and parking; to which, in brief, we dedicate this section as the true winner of the George Washington University Popularity Contest—

COLUMBIAN COLLEGE

Prof. I. Flunkemall, who is making a portable parking space for automobiles and teaches English Survey as a pastime, has just congratulated his old classmate on becoming a curbstone manicurist.

"How did you get the job?" asked the Prof.

"By political pull and a physical examination," answered the other half-wit.

"It's not that hard to become a professor. To what do you owe your success?"

"My G. W. college education," responded the white wing.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

Mr. I. C. Lookemover, so dumb he thought the blasting of the Levys in Mississippi was a modern persecution of the Jews, is here shown trying to get a closer view of the political situation in Washington. His use of the transit is as unlimited as the number of college boys that can crowd in one automobile, and he has been known to level said transit at the step of a street car, if you get what we mean.

LAW SCHOOL

Yegg—"Hurrah! I'm crazy."

Lawyer—"We'll see. Have your finger prints been taken?"

Yegg—"My finger prints are as well known as Gloria Swanson's ankles."

Lawyer—"How old are you, and what is your occupation?"

Yegg—"I'm old enough to remember when the big dipper was just a cup, and I am Lindbergh's press agent."

Judge (a G. W. graduate)—
"You're crazy, all right, therefore, not guilty. Next!"

MEDICAL SCHOOL

Mr. Slaughter, on seeing the Medical School's section of the Cherry Tree, hastily retired to Hicktown, Kansas, to continue his literary work. He runs a hospital to provide his daily Budweiser. His patient got hay fever on account of her fondness for hay. However, in a week or so, our hero will make her the biggest kick in the county seat. It will probably be more than one-half of one per cent.

The Pineapples, a bunch of sour grapes, was organized by a number of disgruntled candidates who were "onioned" by the Cranberries. The main purpose of this organization is to oppose all movements of the Royal Order of the Cranberries. These poor misguided souls say their purpose in life is to promote study—well—they need it. But who ever in their lives heard of a "Delt" studying? However, they have one thing in their favor: there is not a lemon in a flivver load (Charlie Holt's) of them.

FRATRES IN UNIVERSITATE PLEDGED

- JERRY SICKLER—because of the Troubadours—because he can dance—because he plays host at the Sig Alph dances—because he's "overstuffed" and has "sex appeal".
- BILL ALEWINE—because he's all over the campus—because he's ticket chairman for the Junior Prom (wonder what's the rake off)—because he's "on the water-wagon now".
- CHARLIE JACQUETTE—because he's the biggest nut on the campus—because he plays "rooster" when he dances.
- DAN EBERLY—because he originated the famous "Delt Glide"—because he doesn't do anything else—because Bertie likes him.
- JIMMIE CAREY—because he can dance (wonder how he gets that way)—because he is a three-sport man—because he won't tell (is he married or not).
- FRANNIE TOMPKINS—because of that "hat"—because his band plays for the Pep Club dances (he's an officer of that organization, isn't he); because he went to Richmond.
- DON IGLEHART—because of that bear-skin coat (coat, where ya taking that lil' boy at)—because he's chairman of Interfraternity anything—because the Sig Alph's will give the inter-frat prom.
- HERBERT ANGEL—because he's the brainiest man on the campus—because he edits this department; because he's a woman-hater.
- JOE OLSON—because he is president of the senior class—because he drives a Peerless and changes from Pi Phi to Chi O and back again at will.
- BURRUS WILLIAMS—because he looked so much like Wilson—because he can play a piano—because that "hic" sounded quite spontaneous.
- DARRELL CRAIN—because he's the peppiest boy on the campus—because he's a cheer-leader—because he can get so enthused about anything ("Sure, I think it's a great idea!").
- HAROLD JENKINS—because he's a general nuisance—because he can make himself more universally obnoxious than any other six men we ever saw.
- FRANK KREGLOW—because of that "school-girl" complexion—because he always looks so busy.
- "SOUP" STARR—because his Hudson leaves promptly at 3:30 every afternoon to meet a certain young lady on 13th Street—because he's non-frat (he doesn't need 'em).
- ROWLAND LYONS—because he's so bored with life—because he's a "Russian".
- DAVE THOMPSON—because he's swimming instructor at the Y. W. C. A., lucky boy!—because he likes Helen—because he's rightfully called "Reds".
- DON SICKLER—because he's Jerry's brother—because he takes International Law.
- CHARLEY HOLT—because of them infernal flivver—because he used to be the big cheese in the Pineapples.
- JIM SUTER—because he's got the biggest heart on the campus (by weight)—because he can toss a wicked horseshoe—because he hopes to be an engineer.

SORORES IN UNIVERSITATE PLEDGED

- RUTH APPERSON—because she's beautiful but. . . ,—because she "falls, like Niagara, for everybody"—but they fall for her.
- JULIA DENNING—because she tries so hard to look "exotic"—because she is an athlete—because Eddie likes her anyway.
- BILLIE WRIGHT—because she is personality plus—because everyone loves her—because she's Billie.
- MAXINE ALVERSON—because she's quieted down this year—because of that hair-cut—because she plays hockey (doesn't she look cute in that rig).
- PEGGY ECKELS—because she's not to be overlooked on any account—because she likes the Navy, but doesn't publish it—because she's a high-hat little piece.
- PEGGY MAIZE—because she is the first woman Editor of the Cherry Tree—because she is so dignified, and so sweet to. . .
- MYRTLE CROUCH—because she's little, but mighty—because she's a diplomat (we wonder how she'll manage with Floyd and Howard both on the campus).
- MARGARET MONK—because she's so bright—because of that line—because she likes the Sigma Chis (not that we blame her).
- WINNIE BEALL—because she's clever—because she can dance—because she doesn't need a Greek-letter pin to back her—because she's Winnie and everyone loves her.
- HELEN HARTER—because she's something new in the line of debs (they're supposed to be sweet and innocent, aren't they).
- CHICKIE MARTIN—because of that green Ford (Adv.)—because she's cute and sweet—and altogether nice.
- PEG LOEFFLER—because she manages to drag both Georgetown and G. W.—because she's deserting the Sig Ep's for the Sigma Chi's.
- RUTH CAMPBELL—because she likes Charlie—because Charlie likes her—because she rates everything and everybody and keeps quiet about it.
- HELEN ROBB—because she's little and sweet—because she looks like a picture of somebody's sweetheart—because Reds likes her.
- BILLY PIERSON—because she used to be Editor of the Hatchet—because she can evermore talk—because she thinks she's awfully good.
- BETTY CLARK—because she's so different—because she made such an adorable man.
- VERNA PARSONS—because of her inimitable giggle—because she's the unofficial K. A. sweetheart.
- SALLY OSBORN—because she can draw—because she was sweetheart of the University Inn (it's under new management now).
- MARY JAMESON—because she "took off" Dean Rose and got away with it—because she's from Colorado, but not a "forty-niner".

MEN'S SPORTS

BARNYARD GOLF

What'll these hyar college boys do next in the way of horsing 'round? Already they've done about everything but feeding horses and as to that there are rumors that a coupla' fellas went broke trying to feed two of George White's "ponies". This year, however, the height of something or other was reached when the boys took up courses in "Barnyard Golf". No one who hasn't read knows (red nose—so's your owld bootlegger, he's no owl), this "red nose" business might be good if it didn't burn us up after we have a cold, so we will confirm as to where the shoes came from. The story to the effect that a horse was killed for the shoes is rank heresy, everyone knows that all the live "quinines" in Washington have gone where Santa Claus is, and that nobody would go to Laurel for them because they would have to go through Hyattsville. No, the horseshoes came off the hobbies of one of our Profs. An Equaternity cup was offered to the best bull—we mean horseshoe thrower, which was won by Jim Suter, who attributes his success to eating horse-meat. That this port will go far is shown by the organization of an honorary equaternity, Iota Tausa Ringa.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

CHICAGO TAG

See the little girl. What is she doing? She is studying Trigger-nom-ettry. Why is she doing it? Because girls nowadays have to protect themselves. First they shoot a man with Cupid's bows for love—then they shoot him with a gun for the insurance and publicity. As G. W. U. girls are usually in style they have been doing dangerous gunning this year (it's leap year, too). The campus had better be careful, for the male of the species is apt to be more deader than the female. Here we have some boys as badly shot as if they had drained one of the loving cups the girls won (or a crankcase). Also one in that rare condition (for girls and gin shoot hard of late) known as half shot. George Washington was a "big shot" but Martha brought him down. Let's give this little girl a salvo of applause.

PUBLICATIONS

Sh, sh, sh. 'Tis whispered abroad that the latest copy of "The Ghost" was responsible for the recent conflagration in "The Hatchet" office. We are not sure. It might have been copy for "The Razzberry", but this staff steadfastly denies; it might have been Elmer's latest joke, but he was not at the scene of disaster, it is claimed. It may have been "The Hatchet", but who ever heard of anything "hot" in it? Dame Rumor affirms that it was due only to some guy passing out free packages of Chesterfields with the seal broken!

PEP CLUB

Where, oh where has the Pep Club gone? Our patriotic organization, formed to fan the fainting sparks of school spirit into the burning flame of pep, and to give Ford Young something to be president of, has degenerated into a mere social organization whose sole object in life seems to be—well, anyway, we have to have some place to go and something to do on those long Saturday mornings before time to go to Keith's or to the movies. Meantime, what of Buffie and Blooey?

TROUBADOURS

Tramp, tramp, tramp—the troubadours on the road. Hyattsville, Anacostia, and Rosslyn are included in the Grand Tour which Elmer Brown's "Greatest Show on Earth" plays. We look over the audiences, composed of the intelligentzia of these very, very cosmopolitan communities, and we come to the conclusion reached by Barnum many long years ago: "There's one born every minute." So be it. Anyway it helps the gate receipts. Yours for bigger and better chorus girls, and a tighter—pardon—brighter cast.

DEBATE

Surrounded by dumbbells, flanked by flying rings, shrieking above the roar of the furnace, flowery phrases circling through the basketball hoops, our valiant debaters went down to defeat before the invincible British linguists. This never, never should have happened. Had the estimable Mr. Gallagher, assisted by none other than the inevitable Mr. Shean been present, this surely would not have happened. Mr. Gallagher would certainly have written a letter to "The Hatchet" about it. Postively, Mr. Shean.

SOCIETY

And, my dear, I don't care if you do insist on Navy, and even if Yale proms are the most thrilling things, you should come to our George Washington dances, because they're plenty good, my dear, just good, for instance, after the Fordham game the Kappa Alpha's gave a free dance—what?—yes free, I mean no admission, as if anyone would have paid to come, and of course, everybody came, I mean just everyone, and of course, Billie Wright got the usual wonderful rush, I mean she always does, but my dear, Bertie is running her a close second, yes, my dear she is, and "Socks" was so busy giving all the girls a good time, and made four dates for the Sig Ep Halloween dance, and after that awful game on Thanksgiving Day, I mean the C. U. game, there was the Interfraternity tea dance, only there was no tea, my dear, not at all, and the team never did some, but Verne Mac Donald and Henry Foster tried to put on the Ritz with a couple of Private School girls, which simply slays me, my dear, no less, and then, since Sigma Chi had five men on the football team they had to give a dance to call attention to the fact and even if Janet Sheppard, who is the original Inter-Fraternity girl sang the "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi", we had a good time, although the kitchen of the Sigma Chi house seems to hold a strange fascination for the boys, and of course, my dear, we mustn't forget the Pep Club dances, because Charlie and Darrell and Verna have such a good time, and Bob Gray and Hermie never fail to be there, and very often some other people go too, not to forget the one at the Theta Delta house because they tried so hard to get some publicity out of it, and then, my dear, there was the Football Hop which was positively the best one yet, because we had spotlight waltzes in the Gym, my dear, we really did, and everyone enjoyed the exhibition dance by Jimmie Carey and his girl, and Helen Harter got a rush, my dear, positively, and the Sigma Nu's gave an open house tea dance and of course everyone was there, including ten Sig Ep's, led by Joe College, and the Sig Alph's seemed to enjoy themselves, though the Kappa Sig's got "high-hat", Bill Alewine being the only one there, but even if it was a mob, we had a wonderful time because there were five men to every girl, my dear, actually, and Joe Rangely spent hours looking for his girl in the crowd, and the Soph's gave a Hop and Willine Beall and the rest of the Troubadour chorus wasn't there, on account of a rehearsal, so the girls that did come had a wonderful rush, and the Georgetown boys came in through the back window, and some of them tried the elevator, but they couldn't get past Margaret Monk—but it was a good dance, my dear, so you see you really are missing something if you don't go, and of course, the different frats all give "closed dances" every so often, but all the other boys come, for instance, at the T. U. O. after-exam dance, there were so many Delt's that we thought we were in the wrong house, and the Kappa Sig's all swarm to Sig Ep dances, and some of them are very wet, and some only damp, and all rather hot, but they're all good fun, even if the Sigma Nu's insist upon dragging from National Park and the Theta Delt's put on the Ritz with any private schools and all debts they can get to come, and of course, my dear there were the Panhellenic Prom and the Interfraternity Prom, which the S. A. E's gave, and if you are non-organization you don't go, because you take a girl to Interfrat so she will take you to Panhel, because they are exchanges of invitations, and then the Kappa Sig's gave the Junior Prom and Charlie led it and Ruth Campbell looked lovely, even if she did spend months worrying about her dress, and everyone looked to see who everyone else was with and wondered why, so you see, my dear, you really don't have to go to Princeton for a good time, I mean you really don't, my dear.

CONFIDENTIAL GUYED TO COURSES

For the benefit of suffering humanity, and George Washington students in particular, the members of the Features Department have through the following compilation, collected at some pains and risks to them, listed their beliefs as to the campus reaction to the several courses of study listed below. None of the beliefs is guaranteed. Advice is freely given, but taken at your own peril.

Churchill—English History

A course in what the well-dressed man will wear if any, and why. Knickers and red neckties are pre-supposed.

Henning—French

For women haters. Prerequisite: must believe that Paris is the only worthwhile city and Anatole France the only writer. Average American type not desired.

Wilbur—English Rhetoric

The principles of sleeping, gossip and cutting for ex-gobs and yacht-club members. Favorite theatre: Keith's. Three hours a week if you care to come.

Richardson—Philosophy

For students who want to learn to look bored. Required text: "Judge" Class meets at Quigley's. Two hours per semester—during the exam.

Hill—International Law

For those who can spend fourteen hours to prepare each assignment—must make hospital arrangements before going to exams.

Bolwell—English—what have you

Courses in swearing and sarcasm—needed for the course—six books, 375 pages of notes and a big drag in heaven—experience of all kinds pre-supposed.

Kayser—Ancient History

Deals with history, illustrated with stories, jokes and wisecracks. Class meets in two sections: one general class group, then a select group in his office. Ha, ha!

YE CLASSIQUE SAWS

Through many ages certain jokes have run, until now they are about out of breath. While they are pausing before running another Marathon through coming centuries, the editors have deemed it wise to list the so-called jokes below, so that no good after-dinner speaker, or one before dinner, for that matter, will crack one of these as a new humorous effort. Don't drop these old jokes; they're old, and you know the resulting aroma when ancient eggs are spilled. Go slow!

Joe—"Who was that lady I seen you with last night?"

Moe—"That wasn't no lady, that was my wife."

She—"What do you think is the fashionable color for a bride?"

He—"Well, tastes differ, but I prefer a white one."

Teacher—"Johnny, 'I have went': that's wrong, isn't it?"

Johnny—"Yes, ma'am."

Teacher—"Why is it wrong?"

Johnny—"Because you haven't went yet."

Prof.—“I take great pleasure in giving you a ‘B’ in English.”

Stude—“Aw, make it an ‘A’ and enjoy yourself.”

Father—“Ikey, don’t pick up that penny, somebody might think we’re Scotch.”

A certain man, having a valuable grandfather’s clock, was carrying it from his old home to his new. A drunk, meeting him, looked him over and then remarked, ‘Sha, Buddy, why donasha get a watch?’

It seems that a traveling salesman....no we won’t tell that one.

RANK HERESY

Everyone is anxious to make the acquaintance of the bootlegger who officiated at the Troubadour’s show.

Imagine Clyde Reeves embarrassment when Bernadine walked into the Academy-G. W. U. game with a “Middie”.

George Washington had a very prosperous trip to Penn State this year. Many new overcoats, derbies, or what have you, were seen immediately afterwards on the invading G. W. students. It is hoped that the trip next year will be equally successful.

It has been rumored that Jack Parker was actually invited to a fraternity rush party.

A new one has been pulled on us. According to Dot Schenken and Winnie Beall, football games are played by the light of the moon at Penn State. At any rate they arrived three hours after the game was over. What detained them is still a mystery.

Pigeon Marshall is said to be the boy with the longest line on the campus. Hang your clothes on it, if you wish.

If Calisthenics improve your physique, Morris Larsen should be Mr. America. Just go up to the Sigma Nu house some early morning, and you will see him swinging on the chandelier or any other gymnastic apparatus there is in the room.

Dot Schenken must have that magic touch, or else she couldn’t get away with two or more dates in the same evening. But maybe the fellows are doing the same, Dot.

Jeanne Miles and Fred Taylor must be laboring under the delusion that Spanish 3C is the Speedway.

Some philosopher, or philanthropist should donate a package of safety pins to Virginia Gartons so she wouldn’t have to use fraternity pins for that purpose.

And Betty Brandenburg is going to Europe again this summer. What’s the attraction, we wonder?

Bill Kenna broke the record at a Sig Alph dance for having circled the floor in exactly seven steps. May we prayerfully add, "And How?"

A recent visitor to our campus inquired on seeing Alec Porter, "Who is the movie hero?"

George von Dachenhausen has started the latest craze in new auto paint. Isn't that rust color collegiate?

And how about Herb Ange, with his fliver coupe with the passionate blue wheels? He calls it Bluejay—blue for the wheels, and jay for the letter on his license tag.

Does Erwin Stumm always quote German phrases or is he only trying to make an impression?

We wonder how much Clyde Reeves gets from the University for being a faithful assistant librarian?

Ruth Apperson seems to run a prep school for Betsy Hoge's drags.

So far as we know, the name of the toothpaste which June Eckels is advertising, has not been made public yet.

At least the K. A.'s are diplomatic in having a Chi O for a sponsor one year, and a Pi Phi the next. Clever boys! Clever boys!

Several Chi O's are reported to have been so optimistic as to have taken measurements for a fire escape in the sorority building.

Martha Wood is said to be the epitome of the Pi Phi's, and she has honest to goodness red hair.

Have you heard the story of Nan Sullivan's typewriter which caught on fire, and of Dean Doyle's dramatic entry?

The natural dancing class is all for form, we'll admit, but where's the grace?

Discipline is good for youngsters. If you don't believe it, ask Perry about the naughty firemen who don't like to change tires just because of a broken bottle.

New saying on the campus: Ask the milk-fed men of the S. P. E. house.

S. A. E. is back in the yearbook this year. Is it because the Sigma Nu's gave up their so-called graft, or because their chief objector missed that meeting?

"They" say that Coach Crum's son has already started his gymnastic training. Now we know our football team is safe.

It has just been discovered that Dean Henning had great difficulty in making himself understood in Paris last summer. Wish we knew that last September.
